EDUCATION

AAMI Annual Conference & Expo—This premier industry event will bring 1,700+ healthcare technology management professionals from across the nation and around the world to Denver, June 5-8, 2015, for four days full of learning opportunities, networking, and to see the latest innovations, upgrades, and advances in healthcare technology. For details, visit www.aami.org/ac.

The AAMI/FDA S3 Challenge—an interactive forum on the use of standards from AAMI and the FDA—April 1-2, 2015 in Herndon, VA. Leaders from industry and government to collaborate on finding solutions to the challenges facing the healthcare technology industry—including the need for greater synthesis in the development, application, and interactions of medical device standards—to improve the safety of medical technology and reduce the time it takes to bring new devices to market. For details, visit www.aami.org/S3.

Industry Training Programs—AAMI is offering 29 training sessions in 2015 on topics such as quality systems, human factors, purchasing controls, design control, process validation, risk management, software validation, corrective and preventive action (CAPA) requirements, safety assurance cases, Agile practices, industrial sterilization, radiation sterilization, and ethylene oxide sterilization. For detailed training program descriptions, dates, and locations, visit university.aami.org. To bring the programs in-house to your organization, contact Jeanine Beisel at jbeisel@aami.org.

CERTIFICATION

Enhance your knowledge, advance your career, and contribute to improving patient safety by earning one or more of the following healthcare technology-focused certifications:

CQSM: Certified Quality System Manager NEW!
CHTM: Certified Healthcare Technology Manager NEW!
CBET: Certified Biomedical Equipment Technician
CRES: Certified Radiology Equipment Specialist
CLES: Certified Laboratory Equipment Specialist

For exam dates and deadlines, visit www.aami.org/certification. AAMI members receive a 20% discount on the exam fee.
