Selection Process

- The AAMI Fellow Selection Committee reviews all applications and makes final selections based on materials submitted and quality of the application. Incomplete application packets will not be considered. The decisions on an application is considered final. Candidates who are not selected may reapply the next year.
- Candidates who are not initially accepted as a Fellow have up to three years to resubmit their application without paying another application fee.
- Selected candidates must submit to a background check before their Fellow designation is finalized.
